Rachel Cameron was one of San Antonio's most respected pediatric oncologists and had been called upon to handle patients that no other doctor would touch. She had a way with children that was nothing short of miraculous, possessing the ability to make a little one smile in the midst of hell itself. Rachel had won awards from just about every pediatric organization in the country and rather than put them up on display for all to see, she kept them tucked away.

She was mild mannered, and charming. Most of the time...

Rachel had thought she heard some noises coming from the guest house one afternoon. Fearful that someone had broken in, she quietly opened the door where her nanny Mariana stayed.

Her heart was pounding, she could feel her pulse in her forehead. This is when the countless hours at the self defense classes would pay off. The noises coming from inside were getting louder, but were still indistinguishable.

She slowly and cautiously opened the door and the sounds became louder and somewhat familiar.

She peeked over the room, squinting to get a better view. She took one more step, opening her field of vision and what she saw made her hands tremble and her heart stop.

Her husband and the babysitter....

Follow Rachel in her pull for alpha status in this unexpected sassy short novel.
