This book clutches over 30 power-packed pages of compressed knowledge and digestible information on "how to make candles". Each day, thousands of people scour the internet for information on how to make "homemade candles". However, the craft of "candlemaking" is an acquired art, therefore; it is not easily comprehended by piecemealing information from various blogs and websites. Candle making requires more in-depth understanding of wax types, temperatures, and other tricks-of-the-trade that most bloggers are unwilling to diverge. And while "candle making" is not very difficult, having a compilation of these details at your fingertips will save an enormous amount of time and decrease your learning curve substantially.

There are two primary objectives with this book, but what makes this guide unique is the facts and features overview, the quick tips, and a troubleshooting guide which is designed for fast access. The first objective is to explain the various wax properties and additives so that when it comes time to pour your candle (whether it be a beeswax candle, gel candle, scented candle, or paraffin wax) you'll know what to expect. The second purpose of this book is to "trim the fat," giving you the facts and insight you need most — while getting straight to the point, without a lot of excess fluff.
