Theories of Personality: Psychodynamic, Humanistic/Existential, Dispositional and Learning Theories Steven Carley

“Theories of Personality” speaks in depth of the four major categories of personality theory: psychodynamic, humanistic/existential, dispositional and learning theories. Each theory within these four classifications is attached to a theorist describing in depth the details to his or her theory. These theories of personality are 100 years in the making, and although the theories may conflict one another each theory binds the four classifications into a single unit of personality theory. Learning about a theorist’s theory is to learn about the individual. These great minds would document their work for all to see for years to come. Enjoy this unique compilation of their work put together as a single unit describing the theories of personality in detail.
